Weather of Concern

- For portions of Southern California, the heat wave will peak today, 10/09/15. Slight cooling is expected Saturday with more cooling Sunday. Hot conditions are due to high pressure anchored over the southwestern U.S. The valleys and desert areas will see temperatures climb into the 100s, with the inland coastal areas reaching 90+ degrees. Five to ten degrees of cooling is expected on Sunday. The extended period of hot and dry conditions will also bring elevated fire danger.
